Advice & Guidelines

Ridden

Jackets for ridden classes may be black, navy, green, brown or hacking jackets. It is incorrect to wear a flower with a hacking jacket, but a real or silk flower may be worn with a showing jacket.

It is generally considered more correct to wear a hacking jacket in Working Hunter Pony classes and unaffiliated Dressage, but showing jackets may be worn.

In unaffiliated show jumping any jacket may be worn.

The elements judged in a showing class are manners, conformation, type and way of going plus ride where applicable.

In Hand

Foals – headcollars, foalslips or halters

Yearlings and 2 year olds - usually a show bridle or leather headcollar with or without a bit

Older males – bridle with a bit, but no crupper or side reins

Older mares – headcollars, show bridles or riding bridles with a bit

It is correct to carry a whip, preferably plain leather covered cane, but a schooling whip is sometimes necessary to ensure youngstock run out well.

Driving

It is considered correct for the whip to wear a hat, apron and gloves, to carry a whip and to be accompanied by a passenger or groom.

Stewards

Stewards are requested wear suits or smart clothes. Clean riding attire is also acceptable. Jeans if worn should be smart and clean. Shorts are not appropriate.
